Stellenmarkt für die Geisteswissenschaftler

(Job market for humanities graduates)

in: Bulletin SAGW 3, 2011

[abstract]

It is not easy to find reliable and meaningful information about the job market for humanities graduates in Switzerland. One reason for this is that humanities graduates tend to offer their professional skills and qualifications on the labour market (supply market) rather than responding to public job advertisements (demand market). Another reason is that there is no clear job profile for humanities graduates, so there are less likely to be relevant advertisements in public media, be it print or electronic media.
